About Taylor

Hello,

I am Taylor Kinard. I am currently an undergraduate at the University of Tennessee majoring in Finance with a dual concentration in International Business and minoring in Leadership Studies. My primary involvements and activities at Tennessee include: President of Alpha Omicron Pi, Student Alumni Associates, Peer Mentor of Venture Living Learning Community, and Leadership Knoxville Scholars. My vision is to make positive change in my community, but also in the lives of others; to be a good friend/leader and to continually learn about myself as a leader and as a person by reflecting on my values, mission, and my vision.

This vision reflects my values of:

- Family/Friends: my relationships are what keep me grounded. They make me feel confident and give me something to rely and lean on. My family and friends are a huge part of my life, and although I am a task-oriented leader, I need relationships to make me feel whole.
- Responsibility: I love to take on responsibilities and ensure that things get done. I have a hard time delegating these responsibilities to others, but have learned that as a leader, one of my responsibilities is to help others lead by giving them the opportunity and responsibility to do so.
- Empathy: I have to take time to listen and understand how others are feeling. I like to know how others feel and how I can help them. I want and expect others to be empathetic to me, but I also want to provide that for other people.
- Achievement: I am a task-oriented leader. I always look at the future and stay motivated by seeking achievement, big or small. I want to have goals, and I set them for myself and for others. Working towards an achievement, allows me to see the big picture and create a more sound overall vision.

Thank you for visiting my portfolio. Please feel free to contact me at my email at tkinard@vols.utk.edu if you have any questions of concerns.

Thanks,

Taylor Kinard
